

Tracy Brabin,
Mayor of West Yorkshire

Tracy works alongside the leaders of the councils in West Yorkshire to help make the region an even better place to live, work, visit and do business. She is also responsible for Police and Crime Commissioner functions including setting out a Police and Crime Plan and determining police and crime objectives.

Alison Lowe OBE,
Deputy Mayor for Policing and Crime

Alison works with the Mayor to oversee policing in the county, on behalf of the public. Other key functions include commissioning services to support those harmed by crime and reduce reoffending, consulting the public to ensure that their views and priorities are taken into account, strengthening links such as inclusive growth and community safety and cohesion.

Plan on a page

The Mayor's first term of office has seen our region make great strides towards a safe, just and inclusive West Yorkshire. This Plan is a further opportunity to outline a bold vision for the next four years and beyond, whilst building on the brilliant work that has already taken place, and most importantly, delivering for the people of our region.

As we look forward, the focus is on embedding more successful initiatives across communities, working closely alongside our partners. We also continue to listen to those with lived experience, and who have been harmed by crime, to inform and develop our services.

With this commitment to making our streets safer, tackling serious violence will be a priority alongside the delivery of a Serious Violence Strategy. We will also continue our ambition to eradicate violence against women and girls and invest in Youth Futures Hubs across the county.
